Rules and Regulations

All trades are subject to the rules, regulations, and customs of: the Federal Reserve, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the exchange or market (and its clearing house, if any) where trades were executed, any association whose rules and regulations govern security trading, including the FINRA, all terms of your customer agreement, and all other written agreements between you and us, including the requirement for us to identify counterparties to a transaction, if we receive a request from a party to the transaction in writing.

Execution Prices and Fees

This statement, which shows your trade history, lists the price of securities bought or sold in your account or the average price of related transactions. The price you received depends on market conditions at the time of trade execution as well as the instructions to us for how to execute the order for your account. If the order is executed in a Window, the order is included in what we refer to as an “omnibus order,” which may consist of orders from your accounts, other customer accounts, or our firm account. The execution price displayed will be the same execution price as other customers that traded the same security on the same side of the market in the same Window. If there are multiple executions to complete the omnibus order, the execution price is the weighted average of one or both of the following: 1) the execution price(s) that Folio receives from the market maker; and 2) the execution price at which Folio fills the fractional shares or odd lot necessary to complete the order. If there is only one execution to complete the omnibus order, the execution price displayed is equal to that execution price, whether executed by Folio, a market maker or mutual fund company. If we received a Direct Trade order for your account, the execution price displayed will be the price (or weighted average price if there are multiple executions) Folio receives from the market maker. We will provide additional information regarding execution prices, dates, and times, as well as information on “Trading Service Fees” if you make a request in writing to us using the contact information listed above.

Payment for Order Flow Disclosure

When we receive orders to trade securities, we sometimes pass along those orders to another firm for execution. When we route such orders, we may receive payment for order flow, a standard industry practice where brokerage firms receive a small per-share rebate when an order is executed, or a share of the market makers’ or market centers’ revenue for processing those orders. In addition, we may receive compensation that is not directly related to specific per-share amounts from market centers, but based instead on the overall quantity and/or type of order flow we present to the market center. We monitor executions regularly for quality, consistent with our regulatory obligations to monitor for best execution. We will provide information about the source and amount of compensation if you make a request to us in writing. The most recent quarterly information about the market makers and market centers we route orders to and whether we receive any compensation from them is available on our website.

Securities Prices and Position Value

All assets shown on this statement, other than certain direct investments, which may be held by a third party, are held in your account. The securities position values shown and any amounts derived therefrom, are based on the last price or value provided to us by our data source for the security, which may include the issuer of the securities, without independent verification by us. Prices are either as of close of business on the last business day of the statement period or the last available price provided to us by our data source. In either case, the displayed value may not reflect the most recently available price, if any is available. We assume no responsibility for the accuracy or timeliness of any such information or calculated value and do not verify or review it. The prices and values herein may be different from the purchase price, may not reflect actual market values and may not be realized upon liquidation, should a secondary market be available. Securities with no price or position value indicate that no value for the position is currently available.

IMPORTANT – With respect to any non-publicly traded real estate investment trusts (REIT(s)) held in your account, the estimated value is shown as provided by the issuer, sponsor or other unaffiliated third party and may have been determined using the net investment method for valuation. Any distribution that represents a return of capital reduces the estimated per unit value shown. The classification of distributions as income or return of capital, in whole or in part, is subject to final accounting by such party(ies) and will be reported on a Form 1099 or K-1, as applicable.

Non-Publicly Traded Securities Disclosures

Non-publicly traded securities can typically be identified by a ticker beginning with the prefix “PRIV”. Non-publicly traded securities are generally highly risky and only limited information is available about them. They are suitable only for investors whose investment objective is speculation. You could lose most or all of the money you invest in them.

Such securities, including non-publicly traded REITs, are not listed on a national securities exchange, are generally illiquid and, even if you are able to sell the securities, the price received may be less than the per share estimated value provided in this account statement.

You can find the offering documents for non-publicly traded securities to which your account has been subscribed through us on our private securities subscription history page.

In the case of a transaction in a debt security effected on the basis of yield, the yield to maturity is the same as the stated interest rate. In the case of any transaction in a debt security subject to redemption before maturity, such debt security may be redeemed in whole or in part before maturity and such a redemption could affect the yield represented. In the case of a debt security effected exclusively on the basis of a dollar price, the yield to maturity can be identified in the Security Name beginning with the symbol “@”. Additional information is available upon request.

No debt security shown on this statement (other than a government security) has been rated by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization.

SIPC insurance does not cover many limited partnership interests.

Capacity

Our role in various trades may differ. In general, if we execute a trade for your account, we act as agent. If we arrange a trade between your account and the account of another customer, we act as dual agent. If we buy from or sell to you securities from our own account, we act as principal.

A - We acted as agent for this trade.

D - We acted as dual agent for this trade.

P - We acted as principal for this trade.

N/A - Capacity is not applicable.

Insured Deposit Cash Sweep Account Program Products

Cash deposits at the banks shown are obligations of those banks. The deposit amounts are not direct obligations of ours and FDIC.CASH, FDIC.PLUS and FDIC.SWEEP are not securities. SIPC does not cover customer cash balances held in banks covered by FDIC insurance - FDIC insurance applies instead. You are responsible for monitoring the total amount of deposits you have at each bank if you have deposits held there outside of our Insured Deposit Cash Sweep Account Program ("Program"), to determine the extent of FDIC insurance available to you.

Each day, interest is calculated on the applicable balance and the daily interest amount is rounded to the nearest mil ($0.001). Therefore, no interest may be paid if the daily calculated amount is less than half a mil. Interest is paid out and posted once a month, generally in the third week of the month. The interest rate paid under the Program on cash investments in your account may vary or there may be no interest paid if your account is managed by an advisor who has a separate agreement with us for its advised accounts. The "Balance At FDIC Insured Banks (Month End)" figure includes only settled cash on deposit.

Your current balance in the Program can be remitted to you upon request; fees may apply. We may, without your prior affirmative consent, modify our current Program, stop offering a Cash Sweep Account Program, change the product to which the cash in your account is automatically swept, or change the mechanism by which it is swept.

For information about FDIC insurance and its limits, as well as other important disclosures about our Program, refer to the Customer Agreement or visit our website.

SIPC.Cash Balances

Any position shown as SIPC.CASH is a free credit balance held unsegregated, may be used by Folio in the conduct of its business, subject to the limitations of Rule 15c3-3 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and can be remitted to you upon request; fees may apply.

Information Change

If we do not have a current, up-to-date mailing address, e-mail address, or telephone number for you, you may not receive important notifications about your account, and trading or other restrictions might be place on your account.

Securities Products and Services

We provide trading, clearing, and custody services. We are not responsible for and do not approve, endorse, recommend or guarantee the securities that you may purchase and do not verify, review or guarantee the accuracy, reliability, or completeness of any data or information about the securities. If you need assistance or have a complaint, please contact us using our contact information above.
